Response to Amendment

1. The amendment filed on 8/13/02 has been entered. Claims 35-50 are still pending.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

3. Claims 35-50 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

In claims 35-50, the new limitations added "wherein the first clock signal has a non-uniform periodic time" do not have support in the Specification. Applicant is reminded to point out the pages, columns and lines where this particular limitation has been disclosed.

Correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 2674

5. Claims 35-50 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the European Patent Application (0 421 712 B1) by Ojima et al.

As per claims 35, 46-50, Ojima et al disclose an image forming apparatus and modulating method. The multivalued input recording signal is subjected to pulse-width modulation at a time unit shorter than the period of a clock signal within the period of the recording signal. Alternatively, the multivalued input recording signal is converted into a number of different signals each of whose length of time is shorter than a clock signal within the period of the recording signal, thereby performing pulse-width-modulation. Further, Ojima et al disclose a pulse width modulating circuit for modulating a multivalued input signal (VDO) into a pulse signal (OPD) having a corresponding pulse width. The circuit comprising a clock generating means (10,31) for providing a first clock signal (CLK) and forming means (15,32) for forming a pulse width modulated signal (OPD) from said plurality of parallel binary signals (D1, D2; D1-D4) using said first clock signal (CLK) (see claim 1). Furthermore, Ojima et al disclose a flip-flop 17 see in figure 3 but Ojima et al do not disclose a plurality of flip-flops latching the pattern data as claimed but it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to utilize a plurality of flip-flops connected in series as to latch the pattern data of the first clock signal because it would provide a simply constructed image forming apparatus, and a modulating method in which it is possible to form a highly toned image.

As per claims 36-38, Ojima et al disclose an image forming apparatus which includes a first clock signal and a pulse width modulation signal but do not disclose a first clock signal which has an output pattern for releasing or relieving a state of gamma correction for an input image signal but it would have been obvious to include a gamma correction in the clock signal taught by Ojima et al for the same reasons given in previous claims.

As per claims 39, and 40, the image forming apparatus taught by Ojima et al comprises a plurality of devices for forming an image by light emission, arranged in a matrix as claimed.

As per claims 41-45, it is well known in the art that an image forming apparatus is capable of emitting a light by emitting electrons and emitting light from a light emission member so as to form an image. The device is a surface-conduction type emission which is a Field Emission (FE) type electron emission device and which is a Metal/Insulator/Metal (MIM) type.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments filed on 8/13/02 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

The previous response to arguments is still valid since the new limitations added are not disclosed in the Specification.

7. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37

Art Unit: 2674

CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
